

Me and you
By Rebecca N. McKinnon

Today I saw two cardinals fly together toward the same tree yet land on different branches.
There is poetry in everything if only one knows how to see.
Of course, we are the cardinals.
I am out of reach, but my song isn't.
Listen.